"TRADITIONAL PARSİ GARA" SAREE ONLY $20!

A "Gara Raffle" fundraiser is currently underway for our 2012 N.A. Zarathushti Congress to be held in NY on Aug. 2nd – Aug. 5th, 2012. It is a beautiful black gara with multi colored embroidery from the well known "Khordad Creations". As many of us know, each gara is a piece of artistic work and is the effort of several artisans, usually working on it for quite a few months. The original embroidery designs date back to when our parsi ancestors traded with China and brought back home exquisitely embroidered pieces. They are being reproduced back home and here is a chance for you to own one of them. The cost of each gara could easily run into several hundreds of dollars but now you can be the proud owner of one for only $20! So buy your Raffle tickets now and try your luck. Tickets are $20 each or $50 for 3 tickets.

To purchase tickets or if you would like to help us sell the raffle tickets, please contact Mahrukh Cama at mahrohi@verizon.net. The winning ticket will be drawn at our Navroze function in the evening on March 19, 2011 at the Pomona Darbe Mehr.

ARBAB RUSTAM GUIV 30TH DEATH ANNIVERSARY

October 7th, 2010 was the 30th death anniversary of our benefactor Arbab Rustam Guiv. Without him and his wife, Khanum Morvarid's generous and benevolent hearts, New York area zarathushti community would not have had a place to call it's own. Our growing and thriving community will forever be grateful to them. A short prayer in their memory was recited by our Ervad Pervez Patel at our October 3rd religious class. We pray to Ahura-Mazda at this time to bless their souls and shower their blessings on us all!

"The real measure of a man's wealth is what he has invested in Eternity."

I've helped many people in my life, like my family and friends. But, today I am going to talk about when I helped someone and probably saved him from flooding the building with tears. It was my friend's 10th birthday party at Nomad's Adventure Quest (an arcade with fun activities). When I got there we played three of the activities. Then we played in the arcade and we each got 10 points to use on games. After I used up my 10 points I was going to count my tickets. I saw my friend crying because he used up his 10 points and did not get any tickets. I walked over to him and told him that he could have my tickets. After I gave him my tickets he said "thank you" and ran away. The birthday boy's Mom came up to me and said, "that was one of the nicest things she had ever seen." That made me feel happy. Instead of getting useless prizes, I gave about 20 tickets to a friend and that made us both happy. I was happy because I helped a friend but I was most happy because after I gave him the tickets he had a big smile on his face. What I wrote is a true story of unexpected kindness.

First Prize in the 12-17 Age Group; Entry # 3; Age 13 Friya Randelia

Doing an "unexpected act of kindness" has its own special rewards. You have followed the Zoroastrian faith for exactly what it stands for: good thoughts, good words, good deeds, and following the path of Asha, or righteousness. My "unexpected act of kindness" happened like this. It was the ninth and final period of the school day and most of the other students in my gym class were walking on the concrete walkway back into the school to the locker rooms to change. There was, however, one girl who decided to run back into the building- and she was running on the wet, muddy walkway- so she slipped and fell. I guess people must have seen that the girl had fallen, but instead of helping her, they ignored her and hurried to get into the building. My friend, however, stopped and said, "Oh my gosh, we should help her!" I realized that this was my golden opportunity. This was my chance to do good just for the sake of doing good, to do a good deed without thinking of getting a physical reward, but rather, personal satisfaction. It was like everything I had ever learned in my ZAGNY classes was coming into use! So I rushed over to my friend's side and we went over to the girl. Her knee was badly skinned and the blood was coming out of scrapes all over her legs. My friend and I tried to remember whatever we could about helping an injured person from health class, and eventually we got to the nurse's office without too much of a problem, and the girl was grateful for our help. When my friend and I got back to the locker room, everybody was asking if the girl was okay. We told them that she would be fine. One girl said, "Wow, you guys were really quick to respond to that girl for help. Now I wish I had helped, too." We told the guilt-stricken girl that it was alright, and she would get another chance to help somebody else. She smiled, like she was now inspired to help others. As for myself and my friend, our smiles told each other how proud we were to have helped someone in need, and just how good that made us feel. Really, I don't think that I could have asked for anything more.
